

Presentations in Russia / participation in Office Next

What does the working world 4.0 look like and what are the answers of Interstuhl on the changing working environment? This could be experienced by Russian architects and designers in exciting presentations of Stefan Rief, head of the Competence Centre Workspace Innovation at the Fraunhofer Institute, and Michael Fehsenfeld, head of the product management and market service at Interstuhl. That's how a promising year for Interstuhl started in Russia in March 2014.

The second highlight in Russia was the attendance of Interstuhl at Office-Next, Moscow, from 27th to 29th May 2014. The new location 'Gostiny Dvor' near the 'Kremlin' was the centre attraction for a lot of interested visitors. On the exhibition booth of the partner companies SOLO and Büromöbel RUS, Interstuhl presented its efficient seating innovations, which all prove the Interstuhl maxim 'Enjoy Seating Performance'.